

Goals

We try to make applications that we could use on a daily basis. Similar products may exist but we believe the better products win in the end and we try to make sure the better products are our products. We generally try to keep the file size small and will always try to use the least amount of resources possible. We would like to make a full scale application one day but until we figure out what exactly we want to do, we will continue making small handy programs. If you have any suggestions or ideas feel free to email them to use here.
